

Project Leadership

Family advocacy for health systems improvement

Family Voices of California collaborates with organizations to empower and support families managing complex medical conditions to move from individual to systems advocacy for better access to health care treatment and services.

65% of graduates have participated in one or more groups focused on children with special health needs

The number of graduates has INCREASED to 300

There are 103 trainers from 59 organizations in 4 states

Approximately 60% of graduates contacted their legislators

89%

Use Project Leadership skills in their work with committees, boards, media, etc.; 67% of these report a policy or systems improvement occurring or under consideration

Engagement

1

ELEVATING ADVOCACY

26% more graduates participated in state or federal level advocacy in 2018

2

EXPANDING TRAINING, OPPORTUNITIES

By 2020 facilitator training will expand to California's rural counties and two additional regions across the U.S.

FVCA's ongoing support and mentoring plays a strong role in families' ability to participate in leadership roles